

you some element of fraud — your speech, your expression, your bearing, your eye, your dealings ; and this deceitful something is as necessary as your usual honesty, but constantly destroys its effect and its value.

345-

IDEALIST AND LIAR. — We must not let ourselves be tyrannised even by that finest faculty of idealising things : otherwise, truth will one day part company from us with the insulting remark : " Thou arch-liar, what have I to do with thee ? "

BEING MISUNDERSTOOD. — When one is misunderstood generally, it is impossible to remove a particular misunderstanding. This point must be recognised, to save superfluous expenditure of energy in self-defence.

THE WATER-DRINKER SPEAKS. — Go on drinking your wine, which has refreshed you all your life — what affair is it of yours if I have to be a water-drinker ? Are not wine and water peaceable, brotherly elements, that can live side by side without mutual recriminations?

343.

FROM CANNIBAL COUNTRY. — In solitude the lonely man is eaten up by himself, among crowds by the many. Choose which you prefer.
